

About Anita Edmondson

When Anita Edmondson and husband, Dave, moved to Poway 27 years ago, they quickly realized Poway wasn't just about where you live, but how you live.

Like many residents, they were drawn to the excellent schools, safe neighborhoods, and a genuine sense of community. It provided the ideal foundation for their two children, Hailey and Quinn, to grow into amazing young adults.

Anita understands Poway is the place where you can get involved and make a difference. She has served the community in various capacities over the years, from Girl Scout leader and PUSD PTA and foundation boards, to the Summerfield HOA, GVCA, Poway Chamber of Commerce, PUSD Foundation, and Poway City Council, appointed in 2023-24.

With each commitment, Anita brings her experience in collaboration and problem solving, and expertise in communications, including marketing, writing, and graphic design. She has owned her own consulting business for over 30 years. She is also an art educator and director in local schools with Art Corps. And as the writer/content coordinator for Poway Living magazine, she has been telling the stories of north Poway residents, businesses and nonprofit organizations since 2021.

Anita has been awarded the Poway Chamber's Vern Marston Volunteer of the Year Award and the Marketing Magic Award (twice) with the Poway Living team.

In their free time, Anita and Dave enjoy attending live music shows, playing (and occasionally winning) local trivia with their trivia team, traveling and gardening. "We are blessed to call this special place home and can't imagine being anywhere else."
